Australia

Chiao Kuan-hua, Foreign Minister:

It is only natural that China and Australia, being both situated in the Asia-Pacific region, should be closely interested in the development of the situation in this region. In the Sino-Australian joint press communique of November 1973, both sides expressed their opposition to the seeking of hegemony in the Asia-Pacific region by any country or group of countries. This gave expression to both the desire of the Chinese and Australian peoples and the common will of the people in this region. The Chinese government and people will make unswerving efforts together with Australia and other friendly countries in this respect.

France

Teng Hsiao-ping, Vice Premier:

Since the establishment of the diplomatic relations in 1964, the relations between China and France have always developed satisfactorily. Our contacts in the political field have become increasingly frequent, and our economic, scientific, technological and cultural exchanges have also increased incessantly.

We have great confidence in looking forward to the prospects of the relations between our two countries because there are many points in common between us. Our two countries are unswervingly defending and safeguarding our own independence, not allowing others to issue orders to us and do as they please. Although our two countries have different social systems and do not have identical positions on and the same approach to a number of questions, none of us is trying to impose one's position on the other, and still less to resort to force or threat of force. We can therefore be friends, and there are broad prospects for our relations. We maintain that the development of such relations between China and France conforms not only to the interests of our two peoples, but also to the interests of the people of the world.

("French Prime Minister Jacques Chirac Gives Banquet for Chinese Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping," NCNA-English, Paris, May 12, 1975 -- SPRCP 75-21/211-216)

Teng Hsiao-ping, Vice Premier:

The social systems of China and France are different, but we both desire to develop relations between our two countries on the basis of the five principles of mutual respect for sovereignty and territorial integrity, mutual non-aggression, non-interference in each other's co-existence. In the international field, we are both opposed to monopolization of world affairs by the superpowers..... The Chinese government has always held that all countries, big or small, should be equal. The affairs of a country should be run by its people themselves, and no country has any right to subject others to aggression, control and intervention.

.....China is still a developing country and has not the qualifications for becoming a superpower. She will not seek to be one even when she becomes strong.

Gabon

Jen-min Jih-pao Editorial:

Both China and Gabon belong to the third world and had similar experiences in history. The two peoples have always supported each other and forged a profound friendship. The Chinese people will, as in the past, always stand with the Gabonese people and the African people as a whole. We shall fight in unity and advance shoulder to shoulder in the common struggle against imperialism, colonialism and hegemonism.

Chang Chun-chiao, Vice Premier:

It is not long since China and Gabon established diplomatic relations, yet in the past year or more our friendly relations and cooperation have made rapid progress to our gratification. We are sure that His Excellency President Bongo's current visit will further increase the friendship and mutual understanding between our two peoples and make a new contribution to the growth of the friendly relations and cooperation between our two countries.

("Vice Premier Chang Chun-chiao's Speech," NCNA-English, Peking, June 27, 1975 -- SPRCP 75-28/130-131)

Chang Chun-chiao, Vice Premier:

China and Gabon are both developing countries belonging to the third world, and we both face the common fighting tasks of combating imperialism, colonialism and hegemonism and of building our respective countries. We need to sympathize with and support each other.

Gambia

Jen-min Jih-pao Editorial:

Both China and the Gambia are developing countries belonging to the third world. In the long struggles against imperialism and colonialism, the people of our two countries have supported and encouraged each other. The establishment of diplomatic relations between China and the Gambia last year opened a new page in the friendly relations between the two countries and the friendship between the two peoples. President Jawara's current visit to China will surely make new contributions to enhancing the friendship between the people of China and the Gambia and the friendly relations and cooperation between the two countries.

("Jen-min Jih-pao Editorial Warmly Welcomes Gambian President Dawda Kairaba Jawara," NCNA-English, Peking, June 10, 1975 -- SPRCP 75-26/26-28)

Li Hsien-nien, Vice Premier:

The Chinese and Gambian peoples have always been friendly to each other. The Gambian people are an industrious and talented people with a glorious tradition of combating imperialism and colonialism. In the past, the Chinese and Gambian peoples, who sympathized with and supported each other in the protracted common struggle against imperialism and colonialism, forged a profound friendship. With the formal establishment of diplomatic relations last year, the relations between China and the Gambia entered a new stage.

.....We have no doubt that His Excellency the President's visit will make a beneficial contribution to the promotion of friendship and mutual understanding between our two peoples and of friendly relations and cooperation between our two countries.

Iran

Li Hsien-nien, Vice Premier:

China and Iran had similar experiences of suffering from aggression and oppression by imperialism and colonialism; today, we are faced with superpower hegemonism and policy of expansion, and have the same tasks of safeguarding state sovereignty and national independence and building our own countries. This common fighting task has opened broad prospects for the friendly relations and cooperation between our two countries. We are convinced that by our joint efforts, the friendly relations and cooperation between China and Iran based on the five principles of peaceful co-existence will surely be enhanced with each passing day.

Mozambique

Jen-min Jih-pao Editorial:

The Chinese and Mozambican peoples and the African people as a whole are comrades-in-arms on the same front who have forged profound militant friendship in their common struggle against imperialism, colonialism and hegemonism. From now on, following Chairman Mao Tsetung's consistent teachings, we will forever stand by the side of the great African people and resolutely support their just struggle until complete victory. We are firmly convinced that after the independence of Mozambique and the establishment of diplomatic relations between China and Mozambique, the traditional militant friendship between the people of the two countries will surely be further consolidated and developed.

Philippines

Jen-min Jih-pao Editorial:

China and the Philippines are close neighbors separated only by a strip of water and between the people of the two countries, there exists a traditional friendship of long standing. The two countries had the common experience of suffering from foreign aggression and oppression and have always sympathized with and supported each other in the long struggle against imperialism and colonialism. We are glad to note that the friendly relations between our two countries have been constantly developing in recent years and friendly exchanges between our two peoples are increasing steadily.

("Jen-min Jih-pao Editorial Welcomes President and Mme. Marcos of Philippines," NCNA-English, Peking, June 6, 1975--SPRCP 75-25/113-115)

Teng Hsiao-ping, Vice Premier:

China and the Philippines are neighbors separated only by a strip of water. ..... We have always sympathized with and supported each other in the protracted struggle against imperialism and colonialism. In recent years, the traditional friendship between the peoples of China and the Philippines resumed and has developed. Friendly contacts, cultural exchanges and economic and trade relations between our two peoples have been increasing continuously. The visit of Madame Marcos to China last year prompted a new development in the relations between China and the Philippines. The current visit of President Marcos to China is a major event in Sino-Philippine relations. We believe that His Excellency the President's visit will surely make an important contribution to the further advancement of the friendly relations between China and the Philippines and the strengthening of the traditional friendship between our two peoples.

("Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping's Speech at Banquet in Honor of President Marcos," NCNA-English, Peking, June 7, 1975--SPRCP 75-25/166-169)

Teng Hsiao-ping, Vice Premier:

China and the Philippines are both developing countries belonging to the Third World. We are both opposed to big-power hegemonism and have the common desire of developing the relations between our two countries. We firmly believe that, although our two countries have different social systems, the friendly relations between our countries will, through our joint efforts, grow stronger and progress continuously on the basis of the five principles of peaceful coexistence. Our two countries are close neighbors; our peoples will live together in friendship from generation to generation.

Thailand

Jen-min Jih-pao Editorial:

The people of China and Thailand have a traditional friendship between them. The people of the two countreis have always sympathized with and supported each other in their common struggle against imperialism and colonialism. We are glad to note the new developments in the friendship between the people of the two countries and the constant increase in friendly exchanges between them in recent years. During the current visit of Prime Minister Mom Rajwongse Kukrit Pramoj to China, the governments of China and Thailand will formally declare the establishment of diplomatic relations, thereby opening a new page in the annals of Sino-Thai relations. This not only reflects the common aspirations of the people of the two countries, but also conforms to their common interests.

("Jen-min Jih-pao Editorial Warmly Welcomes Distinguished Thai Guests," NCNA-English, Peking, June 29, 1975 -- SPRCP 75-28/183-194)

Teng Hsiao-ping, Vice Premier:

This visit by His Excellency Prime Minister Kukrit Pramoj to China has turned a new page in the history of China-Thailand relations. Our two countries are close neighbors, and there is a kinship-like traditional friendship between our two peoples. Friendly contacts between our peoples can be traced to more than two thousand years ago.... Cultural, athletic, scientific and commercial exchanges between the two countries have increased steadily. It is the common wish of our two peoples to effect the normalization of relations between China and Thailand.

Vietnam

Yeh Chien-ying, Vice Chairman of the Military Commission of the CPC Central Committee and Minister of National Defense:

China and Vietnam are close neighbors linked by mountains and rivers and mutually dependent like the lips and the teeth. Our two peoples are dear and near comrades-in-arms and brothers. In the protracted revolutionary struggle, they have always sympathized with and supported each other and have forged a profound militant friendship. Our friendship has been cultivated personally by the Chinese people's great leader Chairman Mao Tsetung and the Vietnamese people's great leader President Ho Chi Minh. It has been tested by protracted revolutionary wars, and no force on earth can destroy it. Both in the war years of the past and in the present period of socialist revolution and socialist construction, the Chinese people have continuously received the sympathy and support of the fraternal Vietnamese people. We take this opportunity to express our sincere gratitude to our Vietnamese brothers. We wish also to reiterate that we Chinese people always regard the Vietnamese people's struggle as our own struggle and their victory as our own victory.

Jen-min Jih-pao Editorial:

China and Vietnam are neighbors linked by rivers and mountains and as closely related as the lips and the teeth. The people of the two countries are comrades-in-arms and brothers in weal and woe. In protracted revolutionary struggles, the people of our two countries have sympathized with and supported each other and have forged a profound revolutionary friendship. The Chinese people have always regarded as their own the struggle and victories of the Vietnamese people. They will, as always, resolutely support the Vietnamese people's just cause of consolidating their victories and unifying and building their country. They will unite and advance side by side with the Vietnamese people.
